Nelson County

Lake Laretta (Nelson County): 2 miles west, 3 miles north of Michigan. Good pike fishery with numbers of medium-sized fish, but some pushing 15 pounds. Perch that survive pike predation are large but uncommon. Increasing walleye densities with some nicer-sized fish. (No ramp).

McVile Dam (Nelson County): 1 mile east of McVile. Some larger walleye, largemouth bass and pike available, but at low densities. Perch and bluegill abundant but most are typically small. (Fishing pier).

Silver Creek Dam (Nelson County): 4 miles west, .5 miles south of McVile. Small reservoir with a winter pike fishery. Perch are also present but are usually less than 9 inches long. Bullheads and suckers are a problem for the sport fishery. (No ramp).

Stump Lake (Nelson County): The walleye population in Stump Lake is doing well. There are a variety of sizes available, with good numbers of fish from 15 to 20 inches long. Larger fish seem to be showing up more frequently, as the walleye population in Stump Lake continues to mature.

Northern pike numbers are near average, and they are relatively abundant in Stump Lake. Most of the pike are between 26 and 34 inches long, but there are larger fish present.

The numbers of yellow perch in Stump Lake had been very good, but their numbers have been lower lately, although they still appear to be above average. There should be perch fishing opportunities in 2017 and 2018, as the numbers of 8 inch and larger perch are about average.

The white bass numbers in Stump Lake increased greatly this year likely due to the strong hatch they had in 2015. However, most of the white bass will still be relatively small. Most of them will likely be between 10 to 12 inches long during 2017-2018.

Northwest Area -- No Public Boating Access

Nelson County

East Central Area -- No Public Boating Access

Whitman Dam (Nelson County): 1.5 miles north, 3 miles east of Whitman. Keeper-sized perch with most under 10 inches. Fair fishing for pike and walleye. Crappie population is good with some larger fish. (Fishing pier).

Multi-County Waters

Bois De Sioux River (Not Specified County): Southeast corner of state in Richland County. Good catfish and walleye populations. (No ramp).

Cannonball River (Not Specified County): In Slope, Hettinger, Grant and Sioux counties. Carp abundant most of the time. Some walleye, northern pike and catfish during spring spawning. (No ramp).

Devils Lake (Not Specified County): The walleye population in Devils Lake continues to do well. Reproduction in recent years has generally been good and there are many fish that are less than 18 inches long. The numbers of walleye that are 15 to 20 inches long is a bit above the long-term average. The number of walleye over 20 inches long is lower than that of the smaller fish, but these larger fish are right around their long-term average, so there are larger walleyes present. The numbers of larger walleye would likely be better, but weak hatches produced from 2003-2005 are likely contributing to their lower abundances.

Northern pike will continue to provide excellent angler opportunities in 2017-2018. The northern pike in Devils Lake are doing very well and continue to reproduce naturally. Pike are abundant and can be found throughout the lake, particularly in the shallower areas. Most of the northern are between 24 to 32 inches, but trophy-sized pike are known to be present in the lake. Northern are a very under-utilized fish in Devils Lake, so anglers should not be shy about keeping their limit of pike.

The numbers of catchable-sized yellow perch in Devils Lake seem a bit higher than last year. The numbers of perch from 8 to 12 inches are near the long-term average, while the other sizes of perch are below the long-term average. Overall, there should be perch for anglers to pursue in 2017-2018.

White bass numbers have increased recently. However, most of them are from the strong hatch in 2015, so they are still relatively small. Most of them will probably be between 10 to 12 inches long in 2017-2018. Most of the other size classes of white bass are significantly below their long term averages due to weak reproduction from 2010 to 2014.

Missouri River (Not Specified County): The fishery downstream of Garrison Dam to the South Dakota border was greatly impacted following the flood of 2011. The Garrison Reach upstream of Bismarck has been slow to recover and still suffers from depressed forage conditions. Fishing will likely remain good in the coming year due to depressed forage conditions and decent walleye abundance, but anglers should expect to encounter few large walleye. The catch will be dominated by fish from the 2008-09 year-classes that have been slow growing, but most should reach the 14- to 16-inch size in 2017.

Northern pike abundance has declined from recent years, but average size is excellent, with many fish in the 15- to 20-pound range. Garrison Dam Tailrace continues to produce trophy brown and rainbow trout. Rainbow trout have done especially well, with good numbers of 10-pound fish caught by anglers, with the occasional larger fish landed. The Tailrace brown trout fishery continues to produce exceptional fish, with a 20-pound fish always a possibility. Cutthroat trout have not done quite so well in recent years. Following their initial boom in the early 2000s, the population has declined in numbers and quality despite continued stocking. Channel catfish are abundant and underutilized throughout the entire reach.

(Paved access road, fish cleaning facility, developed and primitive camping, security lights, picnic shelter, trash receptacles, RV dump station -- Morton County Park Board).

Lake Oahe (Not Specified County): The fishery downstream of Garrison Dam to the South Dakota border was greatly impacted following the flood of 2011. Fortunately, the upper Oahe fishery has recovered much better than the Garrison Reach. Forage conditions have improved and growth rates of walleye have followed. Like the Garrison Reach, the dominant 2009 year-class will provide most of the harvest for anglers in 2017. Pike abundance has declined from recent years, but average size is excellent, with many fish in the 15- to 20-pound range.

Channel catfish are at record abundance and vastly underutilized throughout upper Lake Oahe.

Maclean Bottoms (Gun Range) -- 14 miles south of Bismarck on ND Highway 1804, then 2 miles south. (Paved access road, picnic shelter, trash receptacles -- Burleigh County Park Board).

Lake Sakakawea (Not Specified County): Walleye fishing was good in 2016 and should remain so in 2017. High forage abundance and good habitat conditions have allowed Sakakawea walleye to maintain good body condition, good growth rates and high abundance. Overall walleye abundance is the highest ever documented in the last 45 years due to several strong year-classes in recent years. Fish exceeding 20 inches are not real abundant, but anglers will find excellent numbers of 15- to 20-inch fish in 2017.

Northern pike abundance has declined from record highs the last couple years, but still remains exceptional. However, the population is maturing and average size is increasing. Pike exceeding 15 pounds will become more common in 2017 and the next few years.

Smallmouth bass reproduction was exceptional beginning in 2008 and anglers have encountered good numbers of fish the last couple years. The population also contains good numbers of whopper-sized fish.

The Missouri River salmon fishery was greatly affected by high water in 2011, but has recovered well. Salmon fishing in 2016 was exceptional and should remain so in 2017. Young male salmon were very abundant in the 2016 spawning run, suggesting that the 2015 year-class is very strong and fishing should be good over the next couple years. With a strong smelt forage base and declining effects of the 2011 flood, salmon fishing should remain good in coming years.

Irvine-Alice Complex (Ramsey County): 4.5 miles north, .5 miles east of Churchs Ferry. Boat access conditions currently poor, as the make-shift boat launching site a few miles north of Churchs Ferry becomes essentially unusable when Devils Lake's elevation approaches 1450'.

The walleye population in Lake Irvine is doing well. Fish are abundant, with many sizes available. Most are between 15 and 20 inches, but larger walleye are present.

Pike are also abundant in Lake Irvine. Most are medium-sized, but there are some larger pike available. Pike in Lake Irvine are under-utilized, so anglers should not be shy about keeping their limit. In fact, the pike seem to be too abundant for their own good, as their body condition has declined, so keeping pike from this lake would actually be beneficial for the population as it may help reduce competition for food.

The fish populations in Lake Alice are similar to those in Lake Irvine. (No ramp).
